Definition Of Done

✔ The Definition of Done ensures everyone on the Team knows exactly what is expected of everything the Team delivers.

✔ It ensures transparency and quality fit for the purpose of the product and organization.

✔ "Definition of Done" is different at various levels – for a user story, for a sprint, for a release.

✔ A checklist of activities that adds verifiable and demonstrable value to the product.

✔ It is created by Scrum Master in consultation with the team.

Definition Of Done

A user story would be called "Done" if:

✔ The story is fully implemented or code completed as described

✔ Automated unit tests and acceptance tests in the story are passing

✔ Automated unit tests have been developed with at least 80% code coverage

✔ High priority test cases have been automated and added to the regression suite

NOTE: This is only meant to be an example. Each team's "Definition of Done" varies slightly as the team matures.
